

Criminology Faculty Positions – Rank Open
Lander University

The Department of Government, Criminology, & Sociology at Lander University invites applications for full-time positions in Criminology to begin in August 2025. Faculty rank, tenure-track status, and teaching load dependent upon credentials and experience. Promotion is possible for all faculty ranks. Salary is competitive.

Eligible candidates will, at minimum, possess a master's degree in Criminology, Criminal Justice, Sociology, or another related field from an accredited institution. Preferences include experience in teaching both face-to-face and online courses in Criminology, the ability to teach research methods, and/or significant criminal justice and supervisory experience. The candidate should be committed to teaching excellence; willing to contribute to collaborative efforts in advising, recruitment, retention, and departmental growth; and work effectively with a diverse student population.

Responsibilities include teaching introductory and upper-level undergraduate CRIM courses in multiple modalities and the ability to contribute to Lander's M.S. in Criminology and Criminal Justice. Lander supports on-going training and professional development through its Center for Faculty Excellence.

Application: Interested candidates should send a cover letter; CV/resume; statement of teaching philosophy and experience; names and contact information of three references; and unofficial transcripts to:
