

South Carolina Teachers:

Now You Can Earn Your

Online Teaching Endorsement

from Lander University

FULLY ONLINE | AFFORDABLE | DESIGNED FOR WORKING PROFESSIONALS

- Four-course program can be completed in as little as two semesters.
- Expertly designed for teachers who want to add an online teaching endorsement to their South Carolina teaching license.
- Can be completed without obtaining a graduate degree; or, credits can be applied toward earning an M. Ed. in Teaching & Learning, Instructional Technology, from Lander University.

PROGRAM CURRICULUM

Required:

- EDUC 632: Effective Design and Facilitation of Online Courses
- EDUC 610: Learning Management Systems in Education

Electives (choose two):

- EDUC 631: Tools for Developing and Using Technology-Based Resources
- EDUC 634: Instructional Assessment Through Technology
- EDUC 636: Management of Technology Resources

Keep Going — Apply Your Endorsement Courses Toward the M. Ed. in Teaching & Learning, Instructional Technology

The four courses taken in the Online Teaching Endorsement may be applied toward earning the M. Ed. in Teaching & Learning, Instructional Technology, at Lander within five years of course completion.

Lander's M. Ed. in Teaching & Learning helps existing educators grow into highly skilled professionals in their areas of concentration. The Instructional Technology emphasis prepares educators and other instructional professionals for roles as technology coaches, with a focus on developing scholarly expertise in online development, design and assessment in instructional technology venues.

All of Lander's teacher education programs are accredited by the appropriate professional associations, and Lander University has earned accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

Visit: lander.edu/academics/graduate-studies

Call: (864) 388-8232

Email: graduateoffice@lander.edu

LANDER.EDU/APPLY >

LANDER
UNIVERSITY